CAN'T COLLECT BUILDING LEVY

CONCEPTION JUNCTION DISTRICT MAY COLLECT ONLY $1.

INJUNCTION IS UPHELD

Extra Levies Of 25 and 15 Cents Are Declared Illegal—Several Sales Held Saturday.

The School District of Conception Junction will have to get along on a tax levy of $1, Judge John M. Dawson ruled Saturday in Circuit Court, after attorneys had made their final arguments on the motion to make permanent a temporary injunction already in force.

The injunction has restrained, and now will restrain permanently, the collection of a special levy of 25 cents for alleged building purposes and a levy of 15 cents for a sinking fund to retire present indebtedness.

The suit was brought by minority members of the school board. Testimony was introduced to show that the 25-cent levy for "building purposes" had not been used for that purpose in recent years but had been diverted to the general school fund, and that the sinking fund already had enough money to meet the obligations to fall due this year.

Sales Held Saturday.

Reports were filed by the sheriff of several partition sales held Saturday at the courthouse door. A farm of 160 acres, part of the estate of the late Mrs. Mary E. Johnston, was sold to U. S. Wright for $9,200, and the purchaser assumes deeds of trust amounting to $6,300, making the actual purchase price approximately $97 an acre. This sale was approved by the court, and Attorneys Shinabarger, Blagg and Ellison were allowed a fee of $500. The farm is located six miles east of Maryville on the Ravenwood road. It was sold under order of partition in the case of Thomas Johnston against Mrs. Josephine Johnston, the Gillam-Jackson Loan and Trust Co., and Milo G. Gray.

The residence known as the John L. Moore property, on South Main street in Maryville, was sold to Fred W. Smith for $5,000. It was sold under order of partition in the case brought by Ernest W. Moore and others against George Moore and others.

The former home of Richard T. Wigsell, deceased, under order of partition in the case of Ede Davis against Fanny D. Rasco and others, was sold to Fanny D. Rasco for $2,400. The property is located on South Fillmore street, near Lincoln street.

Farm Goes at $30 an Acre.

A farm of seventy and one-half acres located south of Blanchard, near the Iowa line was sold to Thomas E. Copeland for the unusually low price of $30 an acre, a total of $2,115. This also was a partition sale in the case of Belle Kreider Johnson and others against Della Rock and others.

A new sale has been ordered of the 280 acre tract owned by the late John R. Grimit and sold to G. P. Bainum, but the sale of another 120 acre trace and of several pieces of property in St. Louis was approved.

In the case of James B. Robinson, administrator of the estate of John R. Grimit, against Frank Edwards, a suit on note, a motion for new trial was overruled and judgment was entered for the defendant.

In the state case against B. K. Hankins, charged with gaming, a motion for new trial was overruled and judgment was rendered on the jury's verdict of a $25 fine.

MONEY RAISED FOR HOSPITAL

VISITOR OCCUPIES PULPIT AT METHODIST CHURCH.

"NEED SAVIOR MORE"

Are Not Willing To Pay Price Of Truth Says Rev. R. A. Mitchell.

At the First Methodist Church, the pulpit was occupied yesterday morning by the Rev. J. A. Hopkins, who was sent here by Bishop E. L. Waldorf in the interest of the Missouri Methodist Hospital at St. Joseph.

The hospital has a bonded indebtedness of $675,000, and it is necessary that $41,000 be raised by December 1 to pay interest charges and a part of the principal. The Maryville church is asked to send $2,000. Contributions yesterday amounted to $350 and it was expected that this would be increased this morning to $500.

This fine, new hospital, constructed at a cost of $1,250,000, now is having excellent management, the Rev. Mr. Hopkins declared, and it is showing a profit now of $3,000 to $6,000 a month. "There is no better hospital in America," he said.

Dr. C. C. James, pastor of the First Methodist Church, is one of the trustees of the hospital.

The Rev. Mr. Hopkins, who is pastor of the First Methodist Church at Elkhart, Kan., probably will be appointed soon as financial secretary for the Missouri conference. He is a former business man, having been in the ministry but four years.

The visiting minister had expected to deliver "A Business Man's Sermon," but his time was short and he confined himself to a short appeal to Christians not to "leave Christ out of their everyday lives."

"We don't seem to have the same freedom with God, or the same dependence upon Him, as in olden times," Mr. Hopkins said.

"I have seen very little of happiness in the world," he continued. "There is much pleasure, but there is a great difference between happiness and pleasure. One is from within and the other from without.

"People generally are encumbered with too many things and are leaving out the more important ones. In my opinion, the fundamental things of life were embodied in the two commandments, 'Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God,' and 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' People are considerably concerned about modernism and fundamentalism when as a matter of fact the fundamental things are those two commandments."

"World Needs Christ."

"What America and the world needs is not a political or social reformer but a savior," said the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the First Christian Church, in his sermon yesterday morning on "Ye Are the Light of the World."

"We need a Christianity that can bring the love of Christ to all," he added.

The minister prefaced his sermon by emphasizing the importance of the recent Locarno conference, which resulted in the adoption of securities pacts which pledged the participants to guarantee present boundary lines and resort to arbitration of their differences.

"This is an important event in the world's history," Mr. Musgrave said, "and we will soon observe its anniversary along with others of international consequences."

Not Willing To Pay Price.

"Men and women of today are not willing to pay the price of truth," the Rev. R. A. Mitchell told his congregation at the M. E. Church, South, last night. Speaking on, "Running away from Truth," he said, "Camouflage is better than concrete for the man of today. He would rather bluff his way than pave it.

"If there is a leak in the vessel of life, we are prone to plug it with putty rather than waste time on steel and rivets.

"We turn our backs on the truth, and content ourselves with facing the superficialities of life rather than the real issues," he said.

Mrs. L. S. White, who was called here by the death of her mother, Mrs. Mary Chambers, left today for her home in White River, S. Dak. Mrs. Chambers died on November 3, at her home near Pickering.

DAMAGING FIRE IN ROACH CAFE

EATING HOUSE KITCHEN FALLS INTO BASEMENT.

ORGIN UNDERTERMINED

Greasy Smoke Ruinous To Walls and Furnishings.--Loss Is Covered By Insurance.

A damaging fire broke out in the Roach Cafe about 1:30 o'clock this morning. Before it could be extinguished, the floor of the kitchen had fallen into the basement, carrying stoves, serving tables, refrigerators, and provisions with it, and the walls and furnishings of the cafe had been badly marred by greasy smoke.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It was first discovered by Frank McKee, night watchman, who turned in the fire alarm. It is believed that one of two things might have caused the blaze. There had been a short in the wiring of the place, according to Steve Roach, owner, but he doubted that this was the cause of the fire. It might have been that the floor of the kitchen gave way under the range, thereby setting fire to the place.

It will be several days before the cafe will again be in operation. Mr. Roach indicated this morning that a force of men would be started immediately at making repairs. The loss is covered by insurance.

Smoke from the fire got into the Knox Cafe, one door north of Roach's, and into the Farmers Trust Co., one door south. In the Knox place it stained the walls and dishes and it was necessary to wash all of the chinaware, silver, and furnishings before breakfast could be served this morning.

No blaze got into the front of the damaged cafe, but the smoke marred the walls and furnishings almost irreparably. The soda fountain in the front of the cafe was stained and bubbled by the smoke, the walls were badly streaked, and the varnish on all the tables and chairs was cracked by the heat.

Fireman had to break down the front door of the cafe last night. It was about 2:30 o'clock before the blaze was completely put out.

The fire gained headway radidly. Mr. Roach closed the cafe at midnight, and at 1 o'clock, when the Knox Cafe closed, there was no sign of smoke. Frank McKee was in Roach's shortly before 1:30 o'clock, and he saw no indication of a blaze.

The Farmers Trust Co., presented the fire department with $65 for its work at the cafe this morning.

Discusses Business and Farm Problems

L. M. Eek Delivers Address at Shenandoah Friday—Dr. Thomas Plays Piano Number

In his talk before the Shenandoah Kiwanis Club Friday night, L. M. Eek, former president of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, discussed farm and business conditions.

Mr. Eek discussed the reason for radicalism in this country which even spread to the staid old state of Iowa. Debt he gives as the main reason for radicalism. The farm situation in which the "watered stock" must be removed from the high priced land before it can be remedied was discussed at length. An era of prosperity was predicted and it is "up to the business men to see that the farmers get their share of the prosperity." The value of the Mitchell trial in which Army officers will be removed from their pedestal as little tin gods was referred to in his talk.

Dr. D. J. Thomas gave a piano number at the program Friday night.

The Rev. D. W. Conner of Maitland visited in Maryville today with his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Goforth, and family, and attended the convention at the Christian Church.

"SHOVEL--AND DO IT NOW!"

CITY OFFICERS SAY ORDER DON'T MEAN MAYBE.

CITY MEN WILL DO IT

Then Bill Will Be Sent to Property Owner, Says Warning Issued This Morning.

"Shovel Snow or Pay."

This is the gist of a warning issued today by Bernard Dougan, chief of police, at the order of Mayor W. O. Garrett and the city commissioners, who, in common with most other citizens of Maryvillle, have had to wade snow and slush on their way to and from work the last few days.

At the first fall of snow, the mayor issued the usual plea for all property owners to see that their sidewalks were cleared promptly. Some heeded the request; more did not.

Those who did bundle up and venture forth with shovel and broom returned with aching backs but with the pleasant consciousness for a worthy task well done. Then many of them setting forth for office or store, found that the clean sidewalk extended only to the corners of their own lots, when they felt the snow drifting in around their shoetops and ozzing down around the tips of their toes, that warm glow of self adulation changed speedily into what the mayor and his council consider righteous indignation, and the general order of this morning was the result.

Henceforth, it was announced today, those who do not shovel their own snow will have it shoveled for them—but not gratis. The snow will be removed by city employes, a bill will be duly rendered the property owner and the latter may have his choice of paying the bill or a fine.

All this, it is explained, is under the provisions of Revised Ordinance No. 16, Section 17, and if you don't believe it means anything, just let the snow alone and then sit back and watch results, says his honor.

How long may the snow remain? The ultimatum reads "within a few hours." And furthermore, it doesn't mean an eight inch track, it is declared.

Other officers elected were: Miss Gertrude Wray, First Methodist Church, vice-president; Lawrence Wray, First Methodist Church, secretary; and Miss Merea Williams, M. E. Church, South, treasurer.

About eight persons were present at the meeting yesterday, which began at 3:30 o'clock and terminated with a joint session of all the young people's religious societies at 6:30 o'clock. Miss Ruth Bookman was in charge of the meeting.

All of the Maryville protestant churches were represented at the meeting, although there were no delegates from churches outside of town on account of the snow.

BALLOT BOXES STAY CLOSED

DEMOCRATS SCORE FIRST IN K. C. ELECTION CONTEST.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED

Prohibits Election Commissioners Temporarily From Examining Votes Cast Last Tuesday.

Kansas City, Nov. 9.—Kansas City's first election under its new charter involving a contest between Republican and Democratic candidates for the city council went to the courts today.

Judge Willard P. Hall of the Independence division of the circuit court this afternoon granted a temporary writ of prohibition which enjoins the election commissioners from opening ballot boxes in the contest between George L. Goldman and L. R. Jewell.

This action was taken by Democratic campaign advisors to block a move by Republicans, who filed charges of fraud in forty north-side precincts.

Kansas City, Nov. 9.—Affidavits were to be filed here today with election commissioners, charging fraud and irregularities in connection with last Tuesday's municipal election.

Wentworth Griffin, chairman of the Albert I. Beach Republican committee, was to contest forty north side precincts, which had returned a slight victory for George L. Goldman, Democrat, for city councilman.

The control of the new city council, which selects the city manager, lies in the control of the Democrats, with Goldman's election. Goldman won over L. R. Jewell, Republican, by only 248 votes.

Dr. Blazer on Stand in His Own Defense

Declares Imbecile Daughter Was Born Normal Child But Soon Had Attack Of Spinal Meningitis.

Littleton, Colo., Nov. 9.—Dr. Harold Blazer took the stand at the opening of the defense shortly after 10 o'clock this morning after court convened here for the resumption of the "novel love murder" trial in which the 60-year-old country doctor is charged with the slaying of his deformed daughter, Hazel.

Dr. Blazer walked to the witness stand and was sworn. He was noticeably nervous as he answered the preliminary questions concerning birth and education. He seemed to gain gradual control of his nerves as H. W. Spangler, associate defense counsel, led him along from his early career in Oklahoma. Dr. Blazer told of his marriage and the birth of the two children, the imbecile daughter and Mrs. Frank Bishop. Hazel, he said, was born in 1891, a normal child, but had an attack of spinal meningitis when she was six weeks old. This, he said, left her a physical wreck as well as a hopeless imbecile.

MITCHELL IN NEW ATTACK

CHARGES FALSE EVIDENCE BY ARMY OFFICIALS.

DEFENSE SCORES BIG

Court Overrules Objection and Allows Damaging Testimony To Remain On Records of Court Martial.

Washington, Nov. 9—His military trial resumed before the jury of generals, Col. William Mitchell today began the gigantic task of proving the truth of his criticism of the administration of American aviation.

Announcement of the defense plan of action was made by Representative Frank Reid, Republican of Illinois, chief of Mitchell's counsel, as soon as court convened.

Reid created a small sensation when he declared that an officer of the navy department endeavored to get Mrs. Lansdowne, the widow of Commander Lansdowne, to give false testimony retracting her former statement that Commander Landsdowne was ordered to take the Shenandoah on her fatal flight to the Middle West over his protest. He also declared the trip was ordered over Commander Lansdowne's protest and that this order "constituted criminal negligence."

On the PN-9 flight across the Pacific, Reid declared the navy "subjected the personnel to a possible loss of life" by only stationing resuce ships every 200 miles when more ships were available to greatly reduce the hazard."

Then Reid announced he was considering a request for a contempt citation against the acting war department heads for their issuance of press reports on the Mitchell trial. He accused the department of sending out propaganda "detrimental to the administration of justice at the court martial."

Charges Foreign Plot.

Then came another startling accusation.

"We will prove," Reid said, "that the war department has been guilty of almost treasonable administration in not forestalling the attempt of a foreign flight organization to secure a foothold in Central America, within striking distance of the Panama canal, and that though often requested to do so by the chief of air service, it ignored this menace."

The first defense witness was Brig.-Gen. Amos A. Friez, head of the chemical warfare service.

In replying to questions by Reid, Friez testified only two officers in the army knew anything about poisonous gases at the opening of the war.

Defense Is Sustained.

Judge-Advocate Moreland objected to the technical question, but was overruled by Col. Blanton Winship, law member of the court, who was sustained by the whole court. It was the first ruling in favor of the defense. Reid then asked Friez if two thousand planes were sufficient to gas a territory the size of the District of Columbia. In his opening statement, he had declared he would prove "a high ranking officer on the general staff" had testified before a Congressional committee that two thousand planes would be needed to bomb the District of Columbia.

Friez replied "No, that is not correct. If you wanted to make a territory the size of the District of Columbia uninhabitable, it would require 960 planes, each carrying a thousand-pound gas bomb, to do it in one trip."

Moreland then moved to strike out all of Friez's testimony because it had no bearings on the charges against Mitchell. Reid retorted by declaring the defense sought to prove Mitchell's statement that "high army officials had given false evidence before a Congressional committee."

Moreland withdrew the objection and the court recessed for lunch.

Barnard, Named for Railroad Official, Is Platted and Officially Founded in 1870

(Barnard Bulletin).

The town of Barnard located—it is in the central part of the south tier of the leading county in the state is recognized every where for its strong community spirit, good fellowship, its school, churches and up to date business houses that take care of the community wants.

The town was platted in May 1870 by the surveyor, Mr. Brady. The ground where the town is located belonging to J. C. McCandliss, A. J. Dearing, Samuel Stonehocker and John McFarland.

A town company was formed by A. P. Morehouse afterward Governor of Missouri, John Strong, John McFarland, Samuel Stonehocker and J. F. Barnard, superintendent of the Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs Railroad.

The first business house was built in May 1870 by James U. McKenzie and a stock of general merchandise was offered for sale in the early part of May. Other merchants were Forrest and Shuff, General Merchandise. Samuel Stonehocker built a hotel where the postoffice and Melvin hotel is now located, John T. Gamble started a blacksmith shop and Davis & Stonehocker erected a livery stable in 1873.

A school house was erected in the year of 1873 a part of which is now the Christian Church of Barnard. The Methodist Episcopal Church was erected in 1874, where the church now stands. The Presbyterian Church was built in 1878, this church was sold some 15 years ago and the Wm. Miller home is built on the site.

Since that time the M. E. Church South, was built but has been razed and a number of the members have taken membership with the M. E. Church; other have moved to other points and taken membership with other churches. The Christian Church was built using what was the old school house and has been remodeled in the past year. The Church of Christ has been built and has a strong congregation.

The people of Barnard are a church going people as the three churches, the Christian Church, Methodist, and the Church of Christ all have large memberships, with large regular attendance in both their Bible School and preaching services.

In the year of 1873 a boot and shoe store was built by Valentine Korell, who commenced the manufacture and sale of boots and shoes. This business was in after years conducted by the late Henry Stalling, who at the time of his death was the principal owner of the Stalling-Cook Mere. Co., now the Stalling Mere. Co.

James C. McCandless built a grist mill east of what is known as the old river bridge, in the year of 1869. The old mill has long since been razed and no trace is left of the dam site.

The first birth in the town of Barnard, was a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Eaton, in the year 1871. She is now living in North Dakota and is a sister of Chas. Eaton of the Eaton & Son Hardware. The first death was that of a young man named Oliver Curwood, who died in July 1871.

Among the older residents of Barnard, who now reside here are Mrs. Rachel Adams, wife of E. D. Adams a blacksmith of Barnard for many years; D. B. Clawson and wife, J. A. Goforth, the present shoe repairman; Mrs. Nancy Cole, wife of Sampson Cole, who was one of the founders of the Barnard Creamery.

Of the older families many who are now living in the community are the Bakers, Jacobs, Wilsons, Wohlfords, Goforths, Bares, Conlins, Robisons, Haineys, Adams, Coles and Blaggs.

Barnard is surrounded by a community of home owning people, who take pride in their homes, the community spirit and their good fellowship for their fellow man.

The town has many beautiful homes and houses are in demand at all times.

Around Our Town

When the heart dictates, the feet must obey. Saturday morning Richard Baker, assistant in the advertising department of this newspaper, was preparing to leave the office on his daily route. A young woman passed. "Gee, I could sure fall for a girl like that," was the comment of the afore-mentioned as he left the office. He started up the street. Soon he caught up with the young woman, and as he passed her something within him must have acted. He forgot the slippery walk until his feet slipped from under him and he dramatically realized that he had "fallen for her."

With the burning of the Roach Cafe this morning the third restaurant owned formerly by Jack Pennington had suffered a fire, according to Mrs. Pennington.

Washington.—When Policeman Michael J. Dowd tried to arrest Walter White recently for highway robbery, White reached for a gun and Dowd, beating him to the draw, shot him.

It was a bad wound and White, at the emergency hospital, sank rapidly. Finally the doctors announced his only chance lay in a blood transfusion. But who was going to give his blood to save the very questionably valuable life of a murderous stickup man? Why, Policeman Michael J. Dowd, of all people. When he heard what the doctors wanted he offered himself immediately.

Well, White was so far gone that he died before the operation could be performed, but doesn't the incident throw a curious light on the way that copper looks at things?

We're not apt to think of the South American countries as ahead of us in any line of human endeavor. Yet here's Dr. P. P. Bauer from Columbia to discuss with the Postoffice Department for the establishment of an air mail service between Key West and Panama, and doing it as one who knows far more about tropical aviation than we do. The fact is that South America, in proportion to its population, has us entirely outclassed in making practical, everyk day use of the airplane.

The reason for this probably is that the South Americans need the plane more than we do.

Except in a few long-settled districts, railroads are few on the southern continent. Ranches, or estancias, are very large—many thousands of acres. Highways are bad—in wet weather almost impassible. Throughout a whole winter, maybe, a rich landowner, living in state in the midst of his not so very little principality, can't get into the nearest town even on horseback except at the cost of several days of the worst imaginable riding. But he can jump in his plane and do it in a few minutes.

Consequently, with the country aristocracy, planes are coming to be regarded as rather more indispensable than automobiles.

Too Much Efficiency

By E. J. Rath (W. J. Watt and Co.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN W. BROOKE, widower and hardware magnate, leaving the city for two months, arranges with a firm of efficiency engineers to manage his home. He fails to tell his grown children, Constance, Billy and Alice, about this unusual arrangement. They find out all about it, however, when

H. HEDGE, assigned to the job, takes complete control of the Brooke household, makes John W.'s suite his own and turns the library into an office. Hedge refused to have a Christmas tree "because they are inefficient," but has relented to the extent of arranging for a New Year party. The "children" are surprised into action when on the evening of the party they arrive home a little before seven o'clock to find Hedge in evening dress. He tells them that the guests have been invited for 7:30 instead of the customary 9:30. The "children" make a rush for their dressing rooms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Shall we confer?" asked Billy grimly as they reached the second flood.

"I don't care if I've got hydrophobia, you'll not stick that thing down my throat!"

"Oh, what's the use?" cried Constance with a tragic gesture. "I'd fly out of the window if I could; But we're in for it. We might have known something awful would happen. We ought to have been firm and refused to have a party. But what can we do? He's gone and invited a lot of our friends and we've simply got to receive them. Hustle into your clothes, Alice. Wear the pink. I'll let Matilda help you; I'll manage without her. Move now, Billy, and don't spend half an hour with your tie. Remember that we're all to be publicly executed at seven-thirty."

In spite of these admonition the three Brookes were late at dinner, and after a hasty meal they retreated upstairs for further sartorial attentions. It was long past seven-thirty when Constance descended to the main floor. She was just in time to see the front door close on a couple in evening dress. They were going out!

Constance paused in the hall at the foot of the staircase. She was a radiant figure, but she did not feel radiant. She felt that the elevator was dropping again.

A gurgling noise close beside her caused her to turn sharply, and she beheld a young man with a handkerchief to his face, shaken with a violent paroxysm of coughing. It was Tommy Treadwell.

"Hel-hello, C-Connie," he gasped. "I—I—"

He strangled again.

"Why, Tom, what in the world is the matter?" demanded Constance in genuine alarm.

"Ex-excuse me. I—"

Once more a spasm took charge of him, and Constance began to pound him energetically on the back. After a minute, Tommy Treadwell regained a measure of control and wiped his streaming eyes.

"Better now?" asked Constance anxiously.

"Yes—thanks. Sorry to be such a nuisance, but—"

"You shouldn't have thought of coming out with such a cold," she chided.

"Cold? I haven't got a cold."

"Then whatever is the matter?"

Tommy pointed toward the library and whispered hoarsely:

"Been sprayed!"

"Sprayed!"

"Uh-huh. Nose, throat, tonsils—the whole works."

Constance stared at him in unbelief.

"Had my lungs tested and my heart listened to, just like I was joining the army."

"Tom!"

"Honest. And they put down my age, and who was to be notified."

"Who did this thing?"

"The doctor. He's all dressed in white, and he's got a nurse with him and a whole kit full of tools."

"What doctor?"

"Search me, Connie. But he's on the job, anyhow. I got through, but he's been turning some of 'em down. Notice that couple who went out just as you came down?"

Constance nodded faintly. She was clutching the newel post for support.

"That was Florrie Richmond and her brother. Couldn't pass."

"Who—Florrie? What was the matter?"

"Oh, Florrie got by all right. It was Clarence. He had a spot on one tonsil. When they wouldn't let him stay, Florrie got mad and went away with him."

Constance moaned.

"They ruled Hildegarde Forrest off the track, too," observed Tommy with a reminiscent grin. "She was half a degree subnormal and they wouldn't let her start. Teddy Wall is out of it, too. They wanted to compress the turbinate bone in his nose so he could breathe better, and he said he'd be— He said they couldn't do it."

Constance passed a weary hand across her eyes. She rad become haggard.

"What's it's all about, anyhow, Connie?" asked Tommy. "Some kind of a joke?"

"A joke!" she gasped. "A joke!"

Suddenly her limp form stiffened and she made a dash for the library.

The first figure she observed was that of a tall man in a long white robe. He was bending over somebody who sat in a chair. At his side stood a woman in the uniform of a nurse. She was holding a bottle in one hand and a ferocious nickled instrument in the other. The efficiency man was close by, armed with a pad and a fountain-pen.

As Constance paused, rigid, there was an abrupt commotion, and a young man in evening attire sprang out of the chair and pushed the man in white violently away from him.

"You let me alone!" he bawled. "I don't care if I've got hydrophobia. You'll not stick that thing down my throat."

The doctor looked at H. Hedge.

"If you won't submit to examination I cannot permit you to stay," said the efficiency man to the patient.

The patient glared for five seconds and then stalked from the room.

At that point Constance intervened. She walked swiftly across the library and planted herself resolutely in front of the efficiency man.

"Explain!" she commanded.

"Certainly," he said suavely. "I am safeguarding the members of this household."

"You mean—"

"Just this, Miss Brooke. I am charged with the care of you three children. That extends to your health, among other things. Large assemblies of persons offer exceptional opportunity for the transmission of infectious and contagious diseases. I do not propose to have any of you run the risk of illness. Neither do I propose, if all reasonable care can prevent it, to have any guest in this house participate in dancing unless his or her heart and lungs are in a proper condition to endure the strain. It would be embarrassing to be compelled to call a coroner. I am, therefore, taking every precaution. Dr. Wardwell will not only conduct such examinations as may be necessary, but will also remain in attendance during the evening, ready to perform professional services whenever they may be required. And may I compliment you upon your gown?"

Constance did not hear the compliment. Her ears had ceased to record any definite sounds, somewhere in the middle of the efficiency man's explanation. She was quivering with silent rage.

"If you will go across the hall into the parlor," observed H. Hedge, "you will find a number of your guests, who, I am happy to say, have passed a satisfactory examination. I suggest that you join them. They should have been dancing before this, but do not seem to have begun. I wish you would ask them to start. Unfortunately, I shall be busy here for some time."

She crossed the room quickly and went into the music-room, where she found Horace, the butler, standing stiffly at attention.

"Where is the music?" she demanded, glancing about her. "Tell them to start at once."

"I am the music, Miss Brooke," said Horace in a hollow tone.

"You! What do you mean?"

"There is no music except me, miss. I am—I am—" The butler's voice faltered. "I am to play that thing."

He pointed gloomily in the direction of the phonograph, which had been moved in from the library.

"You've been playing that!"

With a suppressed shriek of horror, Constance charged upon the music-machine, slammed the lid and locked it.

"Throw that key out of the window," she commanded, "and find my brother immediately. Bring him here!"

She flung herself at the piano and began playing wildly, conscious only of a desire to make a terrific noise.

Billy Brooke had to shout in her ear before she was aware of his presence.

"Make them dance!" she screamed. "Make them do something! I am going crazy. I'm going to play and play and play until I die. Make them dance, run, jump—or anything. I don't care. We're all going to commit suicide when it's over, anyhow, so what difference does it make. Ha, ha!"

She laughed hysterically and beat out a two-step until her fingers throbbed. She was still playing when the efficiency man, having superintended the examination of the last guest, who was rejected for adenoids, joined his antiseptic party and gravely demonstrated the Danse Economique.

At ten o'clock there was a service of sandwiches in sealed and sterilized wrappers, accompanied by lemonade and ginger ale, the choice of which was optional among the guests. This took place in the dining-room, where numerous camp-chairs had been arranged in soldierly rows along the walls.

PICKERING AND PARNELL WIN

NODAWAY COUNTY BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP DECIDED.

TO REPRESENT COUNTY

Ravenwood And Skidmore Teams Are Defeated In Final Games Played Saturday Night.

The Pickering High School boys and the Parnell High School girls are the basketball champions of Nodaway County. By virtue of victories over Ravenwood and Skidmore respectively in the finals of the county tournament played at the High School gymnasium Saturday night, they have a clear claim to the title.

The Pickering team will represent this county in the Northwest Missouri tourney which will be held at the State Teachers College gymnasium on Nov. 20 and 21.

In the curtain-raiser Saturday night, Parnell more than doubled the score on Skidmore and won easily, 26 to 10. The Parnell forwards were superior to their opponents, and the guards and centers kept the ball in the winners' territory most of the time. The scoring was well divided, one Parnell forward making fourteen points and the other twelve.

The score:

PARNELL:	G.	FT.	F.
Cox, f	4	4	2
P. Jones, f	6	2	1
Surplus, jc	0	0	1
Prather, rc	0	0	1
Hall, g	0	0	3
K. Jones, g	0	0	0
Total	10	6	8

SKIDMORE	G.	FT.	F.
Goslee, f	0	6	1
Hayes, f	2	0	2
Appleman, rc	0	0	3
McMahon, jc	0	0	0
Peoples, g	0	0	4
Caywood, g	0	0	2
Total	2	6	12

Pickering scored thirty-five points while Ravenwood was totaling sixteen in the final game of the boys' tournament. At no time after the first few minutes was the outcome of the game in doubt. The Ravenwood team was good, but not quite so good as Pickering. The winners displayed a more perfect brand of team work and had possession of the the ball most of the time.

McKee, Pickering forward, was the star of the game. He was responsible for eleven of the victor's points, and his passing was responsible for many more.

Bishop, the Ravenwood captain, performed well also. Joy was the high-point man for the losers, however, with three field goals and a free toss.

The score:

PICKERING	G.	FT.	F.
Rickard, f	1	2	0
McKee, f	5	1	2
Lett, f	0	0	0
McGinniss,c	1	0	1
Swinford, g	7	1	2
Locke, g	1	1	1

RAVENWOOD	G.	FT.	F.

Craig, f	0	0	0
Goodson, c	1	1	2
Powell, g	0	0	1
Joy, g	3	1	1
Newberry, f	0	0	0
Total	6	4	8

In the semifinal boys' game, Pickering eliminated Parnell, 24 to 7. Again McKee was the high light of the game which was one-sided all the way.

Ravenwood disposed of Guilford in the same round, 24 to 13.

In the girls' semifinals, Skidmore won from Guilford, 20 to 8, and Parnell won from Barnard, 31 to 13.

The boys' games were refereed by Hann of Burlington Junction, and the girls' by Blomfield of the State Teachers College. There could be no complaint on the officiating, both men working well and to the satisfaction of all teams and coaches.

THE ALL-STAR MYTHICAL COUNTY TEAMS

As Chosen by the Coaches at the Tournament Held Saturday.

BOYS' TEAM.

McKee, Pickering, forward and captain.
K. Jones, Burlington Junction, forward.
Goodson, Ravenwood, center.
Swinford, Pickering, guard.
Locke, Pickering, guard.

GIRLS' TEAM

P. Jones, Parnell, forward and captain.
Goslee, Skidmore, forward.
Elrod, Elmo, and McMahan, Skidmore, tied for jumping center.
Prather, Parnell, running center.
Hall, Parnell, guard.
Miller, Elmo, guard.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Boys—Forwards: Bishop, Ravenwood; Thompson, Conception; Rickard, Pickering; center: Cox, Parnell; guards: Stevens, Quitman; Calfee, Elmo; R. Johnson, Burlington Junction; Wallace, Guilford.

Girls—Forwards: Cox, Parnell; Staples, Burlington Junction; Kelley, Elmo; Hall, Elmo; jumping center: Daniels, Barnard; running center: Rasco, Barnard; Appleman, Skidmore; Wygam, Ravenwood; guards: Peoples, Skidmore; K. Jones, Parnell.

A curly-headed boy shot basket after basket in the county cage tournament at the High School Saturday. Against weak and strong guarding he was the same. Now he would dribble, then he would pivot, but always he would shoot, and most of the time his shots went true.

He was McKee of Pickering, and he it was who was chosen forward and captain on the all-star mythical county team by the coaches at the tournament.

As his running mate, K. Jones of Burlington Junction, the mainstay of his team, was chosen. Jones was the offensive threat of the Burlington team, and his work on the defense was above par.

At center, Goodson of Ravenwood was the choice of the majority. Perhaps no man in the tournament, with the possible exception of McKee, handled the ball so well as Goodson. He passed or shot with either hand, and his dribble was a feature. But he was lazy. At least, he seemed to be lazy. With that handicap overcome, he would be of almost university calibre.

The Pickering guards, Swinford and Locke, were chosen to place on the mythical team. No guards in the tournament were better.

Pauline Jones, the Parnell forward who created such a sensation all through the day's play, was chosen captain and forward on the mythical girls' team.

As her running mate, Goslee of Parnell was the choice. She played well, also, and could not be denied the coveted position.

There was a tie for jumping center between Elrod of Elmo and McMahan of Skidmore. Both of these girls were worthy of the honor, and it would have been difficult to discriminate between the playing of both.

Prather, the Parnell running center was the class of the tournament in her position, and rightfully merited the all-star berth.

Hall of Parnell and Miller of Elmo were the guards chosen. There were many good guards in the tournament, but no one can deny that the playing of these two was outstanding.

The players chosen on the all-star teams won golf basketballs. Silver trophy cups went to the teams winning the tournament. The runners-up were presented with a basketball each.

Springfield, with a two out of three count is second in line with a percentage of .666. Saturday the Bears administered a 10-0 defeat to Kirksville. Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Grain futures finished irregular on the Chicago Board of Trade today.
Divergent of opinion caused unsettled wheat undertone. Price swings were narrow. Distant options ruled weak throughout. Switch of shorts to these deliveries created caution.
Corn eased off to Saturday's finish in late trading. Oats trailed as usual.
Provisions made fair gains reflecting advances in the hog market.

Oldest Nebraska Daily in Last Issue Sunday

Nebraska City, Neb., Nov. 9.—Yesterday morning saw the final issue of the Nebraska City News, oldest daily paper in the state.
The property was bought by E. M. Marvin, publisher of the Beatrice Sun, who ten minutes later sold it to J. H. Sweet, editor of the Nebraska City Press, with which it will be consolidated beginning Monday. The name of the consolidated paper has not yet been decided.
The Nebraska City News was founded in 1854 by Thomas Morton, and J. Sterling Morton was it first editor. For the past 45 years it has been under the ownership and management of C. H. Hubner and E. D. Marnell. Hubner is a nephew of Thomas Morton, who was no relation to his associate, J. Sterling Morton.
Ill health is given as the reason for the sale.

John Younger of Savannah visited Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chappell of Maryville.

Marshall—Ten communities in Saline County purchased 6,254 tons of lime for fertilizer in the past year through the county agent.

Independence—A Christmas Festival given by merchants in 1924, under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce will be repeated this year.

Baker Will Propose Change in Referendum

Jefferson City, Mo. Nov. 9.—Governor Baker will recommend to the next session of the General Assembly, he said today, an amendment to the machinery of the referendum, by which petitions for referendum measures must be signed in the presence of the County Clerk.

The Governor will not advocate any change in the percentage of signatures required, but he believes that requirement by which signatures to referendum petitions would have to be signed in the office of the County Clerk would be a better safeguard than the present method of circulating petitions.

"I shall not make any suggestions as to initiative machinery," the Governor said, "but I am convinced that a change in the requirements as to referendum petitions would be beneficial."

"I am a believer in both the iniative and the referendum, but the present method of securing signatures to referendum petitions is too loose and too susceptible of fraudulent signatures, and should be more securely safeguarded. For that reason I am going to recommend to the next session of the General Assembly an amendment to the law under which petitions for a referendum would have to be signed in the office of the County Clerk."

The present crop of children seems to be reared by grandmothers and scoutmasters.—Lasalle Post.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation.

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 4338 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pad, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no cruel steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Kaiser's ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Democrat-Forum and Tribune who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. Continually Solving Your Problems

Good Housekeeping Institute is continually solving problems for homemakers. Read in the November issue of Good Housekeeping, "Can It Be Dry Cleaned?"

Below is a quotation from it.

"* * * Interested as the Institute is in dry cleaning and stain removal by safe methods at home, we realize that no home has the facilities for this work that a good dry cleaner offers. Furthermore, we are convinced that modern equipment is necessary and this is not merely a bucket and pressing board." — Good Housekeeping Magazine.

One Act Fantasy Is Given at H. S. Assembly

"Poor Maddalena" Is Presented By Members of Dramatics Club—Play Is Well Acted.

A one act fantasy, in three scenes, entitled, "Poor Maddalena," was presented this morning to the studen body of the Maryville High School, by the Dramatics Club, under the direction of Miss Augusta Quell.

It was delightfully acted and the costuming was effective. The play not only possessed its entertaining qualities but a moral.

Leola Miller played the role of Pierrot, and the part of Pierrette acted by Frances Remus. Bumbu, the clown was played by Miss Kathryn Chandler.

Pierrot and Pierette, two young lovers, living in the land of fantasy, are admitted to the world, by Bumbu, the clown, and find conditions in their new world entirely different to what they have previously experienced. Pierrette's love for Pierrot still holds good but this gay young fellow seeks only fame and fortune and neglects his devotion to Pierette and finally upon learning that he should study in a great academy of music, he leaves Pierette to marry another.

In the closing scene the two return to the land of fantasy, the trails of the world accounted for and their love restored.

A Real Indian Thriller at the Empire Tonight

A real Indian picture is to be shown at the Empire Theatre tonight and tomorrow night, when "The Scarlet West" is the feature. This picture is woven around the last stand of General Custer, and 4000 Indians and soldiers were used in the production.

Clara Bow and Robert Frazer play the leading roles in this picture.
